What is security deposit insurance?

Just like a cash security deposit, security deposit insurance protects properties during your lease. But instead of having to pay a lump sum at move-in, you pay much less for an insurance policy. It's not a deposit payment plan, you're paying less upfront to satisfy your property's deposit requirement.

What does Rhino cover?

Unlike renters insurance, which protects your belongings, Rhino insures your home for your property owner against unpaid rent and excessive damages, just like a cash deposit. But instead of you paying for that protection upfront at move-in, you pay for a low-cost insurance policy and save on your move.

Do I get my payments back at the end of the lease like a security deposit?

Rhino replaces the need for a large security deposit and your low monthly (or upfront) payments are not refunded at the end of your lease. In addition to paying for a Rhino policy in monthly installments, you can also elect to pay in full up front. If there's no excessive damage and you pay rent on time, you don't pay anything extra besides your monthly* (or upfront) fee.
